Add a new Sub-section to Section 108-95 as follows:

C. Standard Yield Requirements. A standard subdivision shall conform in all respects to the "Zoning District Use Schedule" called for in respective zoning districts as outlined in the Zoning Ordinance and shall also conform as to the requirements of the Planning Board's subdivision regulations as provided in this Article. The standard subdivision design shall be required for both minor and major subdivisions in order to determine the proposed number of legal building lots which may be anticipated. The location of a park, satisfying the requirements of the subdivision regulations, shall be shown on the standard subdivision map unless the Planning Board has determined that a fee will be required in lieu of a parkland dedication pursuant to Section 108-97 B (14) of this Article.

- (1) The standard subdivision design shall exclude the following listed areas from consideration as areas contributing to total lot yield:
  - (a) Existing water surfaces.
  - (b) Tidal wetlands, freshwater wetlands or other areas of high water table which cannot be normally built upon without excessive fill as may be determined by the Planning Board. For the purposes of this section, areas of high water table shall be determined by soil classifications, as per The Soil Survey of Suffolk County, which exhibit seasonal high water tables (i.e., Atsion sands, Berryland mucky sands, Canadice silt loams, Deerfield sands, Muck Raynham loams, Scio silt loams, Sudbury sandy loams, Wallington silt loams, Walpole sandy loams, Wareham loamy sands and Whitman sandy loams).
  - (c) Horizontal area of escarpments, bluffs or the seaward faces of primary dunes.
  - (d) Beaches below mean high water, as defined by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey or latest Tidal Wetlands Survey Base Maps, and any beach lying between this line and the unbuildable areas outlined in Subsection C (1)(c) above.
  - (e) Horizontal areas of slopes which exceed a grade of twenty percent (20%) when considered for lots of less size than eighty thousand (80,000) square feet, or a grade of thirty percent (30%) when considered for lots of greater size than eighty thousand (80,000) square feet.
  - (f) Areas required for park dedication pursuant to the Planning Board's subdivision regulations.
  - (g) Areas required for recharge basins or for natural area recharge.

- (h) Areas required for streets.
  - (i) Areas required for existing or proposed utilities or public facilities, except that minor utility easements of direct service to the subdivision may be included.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, the "area contributing to total lot yield" and "lot area" shall not have the same meaning. The total lot yield shall be the total number of legal building parcels which may be derived from a proposed subdivision. The lot area of a proposed parcel may include the areas listed in Subsection C (1) above, provided said parcel shall have the minimum lot area of the respective Zoning District, exclusive of the aforementioned areas (i.e., A 10,000 sq. ft. wetland area can be included in the lot area of a proposed Residence "A" parcel, provided there is at least 50,000 sq. ft. of lot area and an adequate building envelope can be provided).
- (3) For the purposes of this section, each and every standard subdivision map shall clearly delineate the areas listed in Subsection C (1) above and provide specific area calculations of the proposed parcels including and excluding those areas.
